

SOCIETY AT CARLSBAD

THE ATTRACTIONS OF THE FAMOUS
BOHEMIAN WATERING PLACE.A Town Built on the Lid of a Boiling Kettle Where Nobility, Wealth and Beauty Meet Every Year.

Fancy a town built on the lid of a boiling kettle—that is Carlsbad. Who first said this I am not able to tell, but all who know Carlsbad will appreciate the happy wit. And though it is but the lid of a kettle, it is a very beautiful one. It lies in the romantic valley of the Teplá, and the Teplá is in Bohemia—just where the mountains rise sharply along the frontier. There is beauty everywhere: the mountains look down upon the narrow little city, where houses like beads along the rapid, winding river; they hold both banks of the stream against the hills, five stories high, perhaps, though but two or three in the rear.

Perhaps there are 12,000 inhabitants in Carlsbad; boarding houses are everywhere, as one will readily believe when told that 70,000 guests visited the town last year. It is a thriving manufacturing place, but the real source of its prosperity is naturally its mineral springs. They lie in nearly a straight line—presumably a crack in the lid, some one suggests—and while deep boring through the calcareous crust upon which the town is built has often penetrated the vast underlying reservoir, no attempt has ever been made in sounding this deep cavern, from which the mineral waters find their outlet under high pressure and sometimes with amazing force.

The Sprudel, the most famous, most abundant and hottest of the Carlsbad springs, after keeping for centuries its methodical way through the covered main had set for it, took upon itself in recent years the liberty of varying the monotony of its existence, and one fine morning disappeared from its accustomed place and made for itself a new opening under the Teplá river, which grew warm and felt to steaming. It turned back, but it was the work of many months. The bed of the river was leveled, and many roads were paved with granite blocks, clamped and cemented. The banks of the river were also celled with cement. So it is again a healing spring today, as it was in the fifteenth century, when Charles IV., Emperor of Austria and King of Bohemia, coming home from the wars, stumbled upon the springs, and was healed of a wound he had got at Crécy twelve years before. But that was not its first good turn to man, as the good people of Carlsbad are inclined to have us believe, in their natural desire to connect the Carlsbad discovery with the great king who gave the springs his august name; for it was called the "warm bath" long before Charles IV. and the Teplá—the "rapid"—was still an older name. But Charles made it famous, for he was not its discoverer, and when once he had built his palace in the town that grew up about the healing fountains, he set the fashion for royalty that royalty has never departed from. For latter came George III. in his happy time, and later the Great and Maria Theresa, and a long line of kings and kingly men.

It has become the most famous of all mineral springs and the most aristocratic watering place in Europe. Yet the town is always delightful in the thronged season, with late from the middle of June until the middle of August, though what is called the regular season begins earlier and lasts until the last of October. At the height of the season the throngs in the town are picturesque, as Carlsbad is far enough to the East to gain Asiatic guests, who bring Oriental gorgeousness to the long lines of promenade going steadily along the colonades of the "cure houses." This is one of the sights worth visiting Europe—for the long line of slowly pacing men and women from all parts of the world, each one keeping his or her place in the line as strictly and as solemnly as one keeps his position before a railroad ticket office in some great out of town ruin. It has its ludicrous side, too, for each one of all the promading thousands carries an earthenware mug hanging by a strap passed around the neck; glass will not do, as the Carlsbad springs are too hot for that. Somewhere an amusing story is told of a native of Prague who bore evidence in his person and habitments of the oft-repeated assertion that Prague is the dirtiest city in Europe. Finding one day that he had left his mug at his boarding house, he turned to the gentleman behind him who happened to be an Italian duke, and said: "A drink from your mug, Mein Herr?" "It is yours," the nobleman replied, with elaborate courtesy, and presenting it slightly slipped from the line. The borrower drank and turned to give back the mug, but found the owner gone. "What wastefulness!" he murmured pathetically.

But men of all sorts touch elbow here, and with frankness and courtesy in the main. One's mind returns and returns to them and women who have come hither for health and pleasure. Goethe came often, and always with advantage to himself. His first visit was in 1875, when he passed a pleasant month in the company of Herder, Franz von Stein and the Duchess Louise. It was Herder who had led him away from the false methods of the French school and brought to his notice Ossian, the Hebrew poets, "The Vicar of Wakefield," and Shakespeare. Indeed, Carlsbad and its society seem to have had a weighty influence upon his life, for it was while at the springs in the spring in the following year that he conceived his well known scheme of stealing away and going to Italy and Greece for quiet study—a journey that bore great results for literature.

DRIVING UP THE MOUNTAIN.

Goethe returned for fourteen seasons; Schiller spent his honeymoon there, and Beethoven pleased the guests by playing a fantasia at a charity concert.

It was only about a century ago that strong protest began to be made against excessive drinking at all watering places. It was an additional horror that the water could not be drunk in the open air, as it now is, but was taken in a warm room, where the effect must have been decidedly like taking water Turkish bath. Bismarck and Moltke could hardly there when overworked. Captivity rests annually.

At first the drinking was alternated with bathing; seven days of one, then seven of the other; but the present system gradually came into use. That any such important medical aid as is now found in the valuable Sprudel salt could come from the springs the first believers in Carlsbad were profoundly ignorant. The townspeople were strongly opposed to the preparation and sale of this salt, which was first prepared in 1778, as they feared it would do away with the necessity for visitors coming to Carlsbad and the absurd objection became so strong that for several years the manufacture ceased altogether. Finally an act was passed by the government permitting the exportation of the salt and the people gradually gave up their prejudice, finding that visitors were really attracted by the greater knowledge obtained of the spring, through the winning sales of the salt. No great was the demand for the Sprudel salt that in 1868 new salt works were erected. The works were again enlarged in 1878 and are now undergoing further enlargements.

The natural Carlsbad Sprudel salt, which is contained from the water of the Sprudel, by evaporation, is an anti-acid, slightly laxative, and domestic remedy, and, if taken in doses of a teaspoonful, is a gentle but effective purgative. It is taken in ordinary water, or as an addition to the Carlsbad mineral waters, for the purpose of increasing their effect. In cases of persons suffering from nervousness, blood (acidic) conditions, with constipation, very gratifying results are obtained by the use of the salt, given in doses of one-half teaspoonful or one teaspoonful in four or six ounces of hot water, an hour before each meal. For chronic catarrh of the stomach, liver complaints, bile and simple jaundice, one teaspoonful of the salt dissolved in warm Carlsbad Sprudel water, ordinary hot water before breakfast will be found invaluable.

Its action increases the flow of saliva, and in the stomach it obviates, without doing chemical laws and neutralizes any free acid contained in that organ. Given on an empty stomach it is known to promote the acidity of the gastric juice by favoring the outward excretion of those constituents of the blood from which the acid of the stomach is elaborated, and to this is attributed the good purifying action of this salt and the clearing of the complexion after the use of it. The Carlsbad Sprudel salt is very diffusible and passes into the blood of the body with facility. The fact that the Carlsbad salt is usually found in the "warm bath" long before Charles IV. and the Teplá—the "rapid"—was still an older name. But Charles made it famous, for he was not its discoverer, and when once he had built his palace in the town that grew up about the healing fountains, he set the fashion for royalty that royalty has never departed from. Over 100 kinds of mushrooms in one State. The old Greek and Roman writers speak of the truffle, the boletus and the puff ball. In Rome all mushrooms must be sent to a central depot to receive the government inspection, the yearly crop amounting to 80,000 pounds. Germany, Hungary and Russia consume large quantities, and in France the truffle is the staple article of food. England uses the common mushroom, but the consumption is small. America is especially rich in the quantity and variety of this beautiful vegetable, and scientists are making special effort to stimulate its cultivation and to disseminate knowledge regarding it. The Rev. Dr. Curtis, state geologist, has found 111 species in North Carolina—Indiana.

HOW FASHION MAKES FRIGHS.

Vagaries of Hairdressing Often Seriously Handicap a Pretty Woman.

A woman who does not dress her hair on the top of her head should never wear a crownless bonnet. The only excuse for the existence of such a paradoxical sort of head covering is the display through the open crown of a pretty arrangement of the hair, filling up the empty space. Even in that case they are not suitable for anything except except rather festive wear. They are quite a clever invention, however, since the hair is a most beautiful adornment for the head, and anything that can be manufactured, and hats and bonnets serve usually only to conceal it.

Nothing external so much affects a woman's appearance as the arrangement of her tresses. If she is wise enough not to be carried away by mere novelty, she will find out what style of coiffure best suits her face and hair, and will persist in it without regard to the vagaries of fashion. It is astonishing what a fright a woman will sometimes make of herself for the sake of being in the mode. If heavy fringes are in vogue, the woman with the low Greek forehead cuts off her front hair on a level with her eyebrows, thereby concealing her chief beauty. If pompadour fashions rule, forelocks that would put the portraits of Shakespeare to the blush are unblushingly exposed, without a curl to soften their boldness. In fashion, as in love and war, discretion is the better part of valor.

The finger-ring ornaments at present are small wreaths with plain, jeweled or enameled hilts. They are 6 or 7 inches long and are used also as hairpins by persons who do not object to the havoc made by the blade. They may be obtained in both silver and gold. Bands and bows of velvet and ribbon are also worn, although pretty fringed hair really requires no decoration other than itself. An illustration is given of a graceful coiffure intended to accompany a full dress toilet. The front hair is curled, while the back hair is secured and rolled over in a twist at the back of the head. It is then secured on the crown in two loose puffs surrounded by an erect loop, and the ends are allowed to escape in short curls. The ornaments are pearls, which are twisted in with the puff arrangement.

JUNE CHOKER.

No level at better must grow the beard of an author. No excess, no wine or beer; no potatoes, honey, oatmeal or, in fact, any fatuousness, no humors or humors in the blood; no water must be drunk unless it is at blood level.

STARVING 'MID PLENTY

Why Will So Many People Persist in Doing So?

WHEN IT IS NEEDLESS

Discovery of a Food Which Is Completely Digested Before Being Eaten, Thus Enabling the Weakest Stomach to Absorb It.

If you are starving, it is all the same whether you starve because you cannot get food to eat or because you cannot digest what you do eat. The effects are the same. The results are the same.

There is a certain difference, in this way. The poor man who gets enough food he will get fat. The invalid, whatever food he may eat, cannot get fat, unless he feeds on artificially digested food.

Since Paskola, the pre-digested food, has been prepared, people have rapidly been growing fatter. In fact, Paskola, there was nothing that could be done to cure dyspepsia. It was the base of doctors. Drugs could do nothing. Cod liver oil made it worse. Depressive, anemics, consumptives and all people who were thin and pale, who in fact were starving amidst plenty, were thought incurable.

Today it is different. We have Paskola. We know that Paskola, being pre-digested, will cure starving invalids. It will make thin people fat. It will make pale people rosy. It will make weak people strong.

Paskola does this because it is a food. Because it is a food that will feed you whether you can digest other food or not.

The starches are the fattening foods. We know this because doctors forbid starchy food to people who are growing to fat.

The chief merit in Paskola, is that it is a pre-digested food. Another, that it is a starchy food. Another, that it helps you to digest what other food you may eat.

The chief good that Paskola can do is to make all thin people grow fat. Another, to relieve the pangs of indigestion. Another, to put fresh life in your veins, and make you feel younger and stronger.

If Paskola were a medicine, it would do you no permanent good at all. It is not a medicine; it is a food. We need food every day of our lives. We do not need medicine.

Just see what Paskola has done for others:

VALERABO, Ind., April 10, 1894.

Great excise. Your letter of April 3rd at hand. Regarding my symptoms before I used Paskola, I was very weak. I could not digest anything. I tried everything to gain strength but failed. My doctor advised me to use Paskola, and I am satisfied it is only thing for a weak stomach. I have gained two pounds a week.

My only trouble now is constipation, and I am now expecting three babies every day. If my bowels would work right, I am sure I would be happy.

My liver is very bad at times and I get bilious. There is nothing that helps indigestion like Paskola. I have tried about twelve doctors and have been suffering more than four years.

I will say that I have been so weak that I could only walk about two days in a week. For nearly three years I spent all I had for doctoring and had given up hope. I am sure Paskola will restore me. Trusting to hear from you early.

Yours truly,
P. A. HANK

GRISTLETT. Through the advice of friends I decided to try your Paskola for my daughter who has been in very poor health for several months past from loss of appetite and general debility. She had wasted away in flesh and at the time she began taking Paskola weighed 112 pounds, and after two weeks treatment gained eight pounds. She is gaining flesh and strength daily, with increasing appetite for the most hearty food that was repugnant to her before taking Paskola.

As a flesh forming food, I think it far superior to Cod Liver Oil or other similar preparations, and am more than gratified with the results.

WILLIAM T. HOOD.

Paskola may be obtained of any reputable druggist. A pamphlet on food and digestion will be mailed free on application to The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Beekmantown, New York.

NORTH END.

The military battalion of the Father Whitty society met at their rooms Thursday evening and elected officers for the ensuing year. The spacious hall was crowded with the members of the society, and great interest was manifested in the matter. The election was by ballot and resulted as follows: Joseph H. Duggan was re-elected unanimously to the position which he has held so long with credit to himself and the society. To Major Duggan's indefatigable exertions the society owes much. He has worked hard and assiduously in making it one of the best drilled organizations in Lackawanna county. John P. McDermott was elected captain of Company A; William Harrington, first lieutenant; and Dennis Keane, second lieutenant. President of the society, P. T. May, was elected captain of Company B with John J. Grady for first and Thomas Babin for second lieutenants respectively. Charles Stewart was elected captain of Company C with John J. Moran as first lieutenant and Lawrence Burns, second lieutenant. Drilling will go on regularly once a week at St. Mary's hall. They are fast perfecting arrangements to have suitable martial music for the bugle corps that is being organized.

Mrs. Charles Martin, of Providence road, gave a birthday party at her residence Tuesday night, the thirty-fifth anniversary of her birth. The following ladies and gentlemen responded to the invitation, and were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roberts, and Mrs. Jones, Misses Collins and Zimmerman, Frank, Edward and Joseph Collins, Mat Jones, Charles Carter, Comedians Murray, Dillon and Burke also attended and contributed toward the evening's entertainment.
